L. L. Stanley Clarifies Campaign Statement

APPOMATTOX — Political activity in Appomattox County stepped up Tuesday, with L. L. Stanley, Jr. being the intentionally made a false statement and announced in opposition to Sheriff Walter Connor.

The allegation concerns a statement Stanley regards to his being able to draw retirement pay from the State Police — where he formerly was a sergeant — he serves as sheriff, it if elected.

"When I announced my candidacy for sheriff of Appomattox County, I stated to the voters that I would not be eligible to draw any retirement if elected to that office.

"I made this announcement after consulting my superior and after being assured by him that I would be eligible to receive my retirement pay while drawing my salary from the county as sheriff.

"I have just been informed by Charles H. Forrester of the Virginia supplemental Retirement System that I will be eligible to receive my retirement pay if I be elected sheriff, so long as Appomattox County is not elect to participate in the retirement system.

"This retirement is not a gift from the state, but something I have earned and paid into monthly for many years I served as a State Police officer.

"I therefore do not think that the question of whether I will or will not draw my retirement pay should be an issue in this election, but I would like to take this opportunity to correct the honest mistake I made in good faith relying on information I received from my superiors.

Stanley said he was told that 64 Virginia State Police officers participate in the retirement system, and that officials there are not eligible for retirement while they are in office.

Appomattox County, however, is one of the counties which do not participate in the system, and a person serving as an elected official does not have any of that person's receiving retirement pay.

He pointed out that should Appomattox County decide to go into the retirement system Jan 1, 1964, he would receive no retirement pay, and that the pay would be stopped should the county go into the system at any time he is serving in office.

Law Of The Lord

Lesson for June 2, 1963

If you believe in God at all, there are only about three ways in which you can think of God's laws. One is to think that God has made a law for Himself or for angels, but not for us himself. Another is to think that we do not intrude upon our freedom. This is not the Bible's way of looking at it. God knows us too well. We are His children, and He and us Charenco Holley and daughter, Shirley, of Richmond, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hogwood, of Petersburg.

The Pulchers were guests in the home of Mrs. Pamela Case on Sunday, May 19 in Colonial Heights. They also motored to Richmond to see Mrs. Fulcher's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Bess.

Miss Jane Davis spent Saturday night with Shirley Holley in Richmond.

Mrs. Alfred Jamerson is getting on nicely in the Virginia Baptist Hospital where she recently underwent surgery.

Sunday p.m. guests of Mrs. E. T. Jamerson were Mr. Louis Davis of Roanoke; Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Jamerson, Carolyn and Patricia, of Lynchburg; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jamerson and Deborah, of near here.

Miss Linda Bruce Gilliam and her friend, Miss Taula Johnson, of Lynchburg, spent most of Sunday with Linda's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Gilliam. Linda is a student at Phillips Business College.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Gilliam motored to Lynchburg, Sunday p.m. and visited Mrs. Alfred Jamerson, who is a patient in the Virginia Baptist Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Roland Garrison spent the day Sunday here with Mrs. Walter J. Payne. Mrs. Payne and Mrs. Clyde Dickerson were in Farmville shopping on Wednesday of last week. They also visited several patients in the Southside Hospital while there.

Over the week end guests of Dr. and Mrs. C. H. McCall were Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Ponton, of Newport News; Mr. and Mrs. Lear Ponton and daughter, Anne, of Yorktown; Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Smith, of Axton, Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Cunningham, Mrs. E. T. Wilson, Billy Star Brightwell and Mike Cunningham.

Last Friday night Walter J. Payne, Jr., of Waynesboro, presented his annual recital in the Oakville School, which was well attended, and a great success.

Mrs. E. L. Paisley, Sandra, Mrs. Henry Adams and daughter, Barbara, motored to Scottsville Sunday and spent the day with Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Suddarth, Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Cyrus spent the week end with the latters parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Ramsey here. Other visitors in this same home were Mr. and

Rejoicing in the Law of God

The poet who wrote the longest Psalm, the longest chapter in the Bible, wrote it about God's law. That psalm (Psalm 119) has 176 verses and only two or three fail to speak of the law, perhaps using various other words meaning the same thing, such as ordinances, commands, statutes and the like. But this longest psalm not only speaks of the divine law, which for him was summed up in the laws of Moses, it sings of the law. This is a poem of joy. The laws of God are felt to be, not a fence to shut us out from happiness, not a grim discipline like an obedience for soldiers, but of an expression of the will of the God who wants only the best for His creatures. Years ago Walter Lippmann put the matter quite simply: Morality — he said—is nothing to crush vitality; morality is what vitality would choose if it knew what it was doing. Put that into Christian terms: Right thought and action is what human beings would choose if we knew what we are doing. God's laws are not chains, they are wings. The law of God is the will of God.

Laws for Body and Mind

People wonder sometimes why the church is so interested (for example) in the liquor business, why in fact many churches simply make it a rule: No drinking! Christians who stop short of total abstinence speak much of temperance. And this not only in alcohol but in all things. life of excess — excess of emotions, of eating or drinking, yes, too much work or sleep or play — an unbalanced life, this the Christian church knows to be harmful. The church hangs out warning signs along here not to destroy innocent pleasures but because, as Christ's voice and hands on this earth, the church is concerned to see that life — of the body, the mind and the spirit — does not weaken itself by disobeying the laws of life which God Himself has made.

Pamplin

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Farrar, of Fairfax, spent Mother's Day week end here with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Farrar. En route to Pamplin they stopped at Staunton and their daughter, Norma Kasher, inc., a student at Mary Baldwin College, came with them.

Mr. Steward Farrar recently spent a week in Raleigh, N. C. on a business trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Hamlett visited his mother, Mrs. Harry Hamlett, near Pamplin, last Sunday. Mrs. Hamlett has been confined to her bed with a case of "Flu". She is at this time slightly improved.

Mr. Edward Cumby was at home all last week, sick with a virus.

Visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gilliam this past week were Mrs. Robert Harris, Rev. John L. Hart; Mrs. William M. Black and daughter, Miss Mary Alice Black.

Mrs. Ethel Bates took her S.S. Class of Junior boys after Sunday School to Lynchburg Sunday morning on a picnic trip.

Week end guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Pulcher were Mr. and Mrs. Charenco Holley and daughter, Shirley, of Richmond, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hogwood, of Petersburg.

The Pulchers were guests in the home of Mrs. Pamela Case on Sunday, May 19 in Colonial Heights. They also motored to Richmond to see Mrs. Fulcher's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Bess.
